

10. A wide-angle photograph of a large, multi-story building with a flat roof, likely a school or institutional building, with a parking lot in front.

POLICE COURT.
GEO. W. JOHNSTON, Judge.
MONDAY, September 10.
CHARGE OF FIGHTING.—Thos. Cochran and McClear were presented on the charge of fighting a fight.

[illegible]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12.—Geo. W. Johnson, a tall, thin, dark man, with a mustache, was taken to a vest from Sproule & Mandeville, the fashionable clothing store, corner of Main and Pine streets, at 10 o'clock last night. He was taken away from the store and was followed by S. R. Pratt, a clerk in the store, who, on coming up to the store, saw Johnson and tried him with a revolver. He was taken away from the store and was followed by S. R. Pratt, a clerk in the store, who, on coming up to the store, saw Johnson and tried him with a revolver. He was taken away from the store and was followed by S. R. Pratt, a clerk in the store, who, on coming up to the store, saw Johnson and tried him with a revolver.

ence and disorderly conduct. The affair was reported to the police, and a constable on Horse on Market street, between Fifth and Sixth and 12 or 15 witnesses called in to prove it. The first witness called was he who was, but he was not the affiant, and he was not called, commenced, when some fellow came in, blew on a light, and then witness went out, too. Happened again, that the two Jamisons' and others were called. John Carter was called, and he also least one of the witnesses who was trying to get them off of the wounded man. The party who was called, and he was called, and he was invited, but these others follow, and they get themselves in, and commenced a row. A chap of name of Johnson blew the lights out, and he had a gun, and then there had been a killing, a good deal of dancing, mixed in, no doubt, a good deal of mean whisky. Officer Neasey in and arrested some of the parties, including John Carter. Then there had been a killing. Carter had interfered in the arrest, trying to get the Jamisons away, saying they had no hand in the fray.

Bullfrogs Hoosier Editors.

There is no person named Terrell, nor of a probable hostile meeting between prominent Republican editors of Indiana, who have been thus queried in this city. As we learn the editors are briefly as follows: Mr. Lingel, of the Lafayette Courier, charged Mr. Terrell with having been a member of a notified a calumnious story against him, pronounced him in a card. Mr. Terrell having been a member of the same, and a paper that he recognized what is called "a humor," notified Mr. L. that he would meet him at the residence of Mr. Terrell. Accordingly, a correspondence was caused on the arrival of Mr. Lingel in the city, was a meeting of the two, and a friendly and friendly encounter, to the great satisfaction of Mr. Terrell's young Kentucky friends, and the unexpected declination of Mr. Lingel by the Kentucky mode of retirement, and the legitimate weapon which is "nigher than sword."

Lingel, in declining to fight the duel, does the same as Terrell.

W. G. TERRELL. "Your note of the 18th at the hands of Col. George B. Hooge and Alexander Walker, was delivered to me, at the residence of Mr. Terrell, and I have been taking care of my own affairs, and consequently your message, as I deliver this, is not in my hands. I have no objection to your pen, is by the statutes of Ohio, a penitentiary offense. You are none too good to seek to offend me, and I am not at all disposed to do so. I must decline your kind invitation, as, as all further attestations from yourself or proxy, and I am not at all disposed to be ever entertained upon the criminal folly of line. My opinions upon this subject, I have already expressed in the Register. I am sure that I may attribute your ridiculous challenge to me to the same cause which has induced me to write. I shall not frighten you out of your skin by accepting it. Those who know you best will be able to judge of the propriety of this.

I am aware, sir, of your social position, or other side of the river—of your ambition to trade yourself upon the society of the F. F. V. among the chivalry as a man of honor. The conceivance to be the laudable motive that prompts you to this, I do not doubt. But I have no room to quarrel with you for your "Hoosierdom to Kentucky." You will allow me to say that your unhappy tendencies in that direction, in view of the fact that you were not a native of the State, and that you were not content to teach young idiots how to shoot within the range of your limited abilities, but that you were bent upon the publication of a commentary upon the degeneracy of the age, and the degradation of the State, is a crime that does not hold me self-amenable to the rules of a society which seeks to legalize murder, and place the sword of good criticism upon a par with the sword of good sense. I am a gentleman, and I entertain no doubts as to the God-given right of defense; and if you are skeptical as to my

General Items.

27 The ball room is making sad havoc on the cotton crop in Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama.

28 Gen. Harner leaves for Oregon on the 1st. The Indian war will subside quickly after he reaches the field.

29 Wm. Hicks committed suicide near El Paso, on Thursday of last week, by blowing his brains.

30 Gabriel Rael has arrived in New York from France with his new troupe, which includes a champion wrestler, a Vergil, and a juggler.

31 Frank Leslie has elected Alderman McCall who expelled him from the New York Post dinner, for $10,000 damages.

32 There is a talk of an expedition against Madagascar, by a combined English and Spanish force, to punish the king for not paying the ransom.

of that island have been guilty.

The drought is so great in the province of Arragon, Spain, that the fields have to be watered and irrigated with each other to get water from the Ebro.

The planters are to meet this week, to discuss to close the great "Holl Cressace," new variety of cotton, which is being raised in Orleans, through which the night of the Mississippi have been rushing for months the great force.

Fine racing is anticipated at Gulf Tenn. the present week. On Friday a public meeting will be held, and it is expected that the best three year old race ever run in Tennessee.

Mr. Martin R. Combs, who some years ago performed Hamlet, Romeo, and Othello, has been an amateur in the National Theater, Cincinnati, committed suicide last Tuesday, in Barre, Maine. The cause is not known.

YELLOW FEVER AT CHARLESTON.—During from August to November, there were 614 yellow fever deaths in Charleston, S. C. For the same period in 1935 there were 209 deaths. During the present year, between the 1st of August and 4th of September, the disease has claimed victims.

OPEN AIR TREATMENT.—Dr. J. C. Thompson, Staten Island, a gentleman who enjoys the reputation of having been a prominent actor in the original destruction of the Quarantine, is now in New York, and that the patients in the hospital, instead of suffering from the disease,

A LONG CONCEALED MURDER REVEALED.—A recently brought a skull to his master, it woods, near Detroit, Mich., and on investigating the body of a railroad conductor, named Hickey, formerly of Georgia, was discovered, must have been killed nearly a year ago. A named Kennedy is suspected of the murder he has escaped, although he has been passed through several cities in the Union and from in Charleston and New York.

